"The Greek people," Mr. Roussos declared, "by a double victory have won the distinction of having its flag waved in the midst of the banners of these nations that are the champions of liberty and justice. Its first victory was won over itself and its second over the enemy.

"For nearly three years the Greeks were subjected to a defeatist propaganda of the most intense nature. King Constantine, to whom they had given their love and their devotion, had sought to weaken their courage, to inoculate them with the microbe of fear, by picturing to them the might of Germany and the terrible means which she employed, as something new in the world, as something which only fools could entertain the thought of resisting.

History of Defeatist Propaganda Told at Altar of

Healey's

The 1919 Edition of the Golden Glades Victory Revue opened at Thomas Healy's, Broadway at Sixtysixth Street, Friday night. It is gorgeously costumed and unique in every way. Three delightfully new ideas were offered. "The Days of Old," a revival of the colonial minuette, with Helen Hardick leading was the emphatic hit of the performance.

Hotel Martinique

The promise of the female members of the Gus Edwards Revue, "Attaboy," at the Martinique, at the start of the Liberty Loan drive last week, to bestow a kiss upon every cash buyer of a $50 bond in the Omar Khayyam Room, started to result in complications last Friday night. And the complications particularly involved Miss Morcedes Lorenz, the prima donna of "Attaboy."

Lorenz, the prima donna of "Attaboy."

It all came about through the efforts of Judge Louis J. Hixon, of Atlanta, Ga., a guest of the Martinique, endeavoring to corner the osculatory market. Since Monday night Judge Hixon has been a steady attendant at the "Attaboy" performances and has pledged himself to the extent of $2,000. Now, Miss Lorenz and the other fair members of the company have nightly carried out their pledges anent the esculatory prizes promised, but the Southern judge and his friends have refused to exact their toll, insisting that the final accounting be made on the completion of the drive. Therefore Miss Lorenz is now at a less to comprehend what the final reckoning will be, inasmuch as the drive still has two weeks to go.

asmuch as the drive still has two weeks to go.

However, Judge Hixon has confided to Gus Edwards that he would not be so lacking in Southern chivalry as to insist on Miss Lorenz going into osculatory bankruptcy at the culmination of the drive, but that as a settlement he would insist upon having Miss Lorenz and the entire company as his guests at a
